LIVE STOCK MARKETS AT KANSAS CITY

THE WEEK'S TRADE REPORTED BY CLAY, ROBINSON & COMPANY, LIVE STOCK COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

OFFICES AT CHICAGO, KANSAS CITY, OMAHA, SIOUX CITY, ST. JOSEPH AND DENVER

Kansas City, July 5, 1905

Receipts of cattle Monday were 5000 and the market a most satisfactory one to the selling side of the trade. Killers all wanted cattle and competition was keen with trading active at 10 to 25c higher prices. This applied to beef steers and fed cows and heifers. Grass cows were firm. Bulls and veals unchanged. Tuesday was a holiday and today there was a run of 10,000 cattle. Outside markets were also heavily supplied. The demand was quite good, but 10 to 20c was taken off heavy weight beef steers. Light weights were steady to 10c lower. Cows and heifers mostly steady, extremes 10c lower. Stockers and feeders were steady but slow. Bulls steady; veal strong. The following table gives prices now ruling:

|   |                |
|---|----------------|
| Extra prime cornfed steers                  | 45 50 to 45 75 |

THE OBSERVING ROBIN.

How Does the Bird Know Just Where to Bore For Grubs?

I once observed a robin boring for grubs in a country dooryard. It is a common enough sight to witness one seize an angleworm and drag it from its burrow in the turf, but I am not sure that I ever before saw one drill for grubs and bring the big white morsel to the surface. The robin I am speaking of had a nest of young in a maple near by, and she worked the neighborhood very industriously for food. She would run along over the short grass after the manner of robins, stopping every few feet, her form stiff and erect. Now and then she would suddenly bend her head toward the ground and bring eye or ear for a moment to bear intently upon it. Then she would spring to boring the turf vigorously with her bill, changing her attitude at each stroke, alert and watchful, throwing up the grass roots and little jets of soil, stabbing deeper and deeper, growing every moment more and more excited, till finally a fat grub was seized and brought forth. Time after time during several days I saw her mine for grubs in this way and drag them forth. How did she know where to drill? The insect was in every case an inch below the surface. Did she hear it gnawing the roots of the grasses or did she see a movement in the turf beneath which the grub was at work? I know not. I only know that she struck her game unerringly each time. Only twice did I see her make a few thrusts and then desist, as if she had been for the moment deceived. —John Burroughs in Outing.

COQUELIN'S REPLY.

How the French Actor Got Into the Sub Rosa Club.

One of the most famous of the Quarter Latin clubs in Paris is the one which is called the Sub Rosa. The elder Coquelin, the great actor, was present one night at the club's weekly feast and applied for membership. Now, the only rules of the Sub Rosa men are: "Think much. Write little. Be as silent as you can." The presiding officer, with this last rule in mind, answered the applicant by placing before him a tumbler filled so full of water that another drop would have caused it to run over. Coquelin understood. The club membership was obviously full.

Over the table was suspended a rose, the club emblem. While the glass still stood before him Coquelin broke a petal from the flower and laid it so gently on the water that not a single drop escaped. A silent man could join and make no trouble. Around the table ran a ripple of smiles and little hand claps and nods of approval, and then, as if of one accord, all began making bread balls. Then a cup was passed from hand to hand and each deposited his "ballot" in it, and all were found to be round. Not one had been pressed flat in sign of disapproval. So Coquelin joined the Sub Rosa club.—Warwick James Price in Success.

His Cottage His Castle.

The right of every Englishman to consider his cottage as his castle was never but once questioned, and that was by a London magistrate who was presiding in an action for trespass. "My client," said the barrister in making his plea, "is a poor man—he lives in a hovel, and this miserable dwelling is in a forlorn and dilapidated state—but still, thank God, the laborer's cottage, however ruinous its plight, is still his sanctuary and his castle. Yes, the winds may enter it, and the rains may enter it, but the king cannot enter it."

"What! Not the reigning king?" asked the joke loving judge.

Feared the Worst.

Friday Vizer, a familiar negro about town in a certain part of Mississippi, had been found dead, and, being a member of no church or lodge—very unusual for a negro—there was no one to pray for his soul in the great beyond. A few old intimates, however, carried the body to the cemetery in a rude pine coffin, and Bob McRaven, one of the number, an old "befo' de wah dardy," was called upon for a few remarks. Bob removed his hat and stepped reverently and sadly toward the open grave and in solemn, funeral tones said: "Friday Vizer, you is gone. We hopes you is gone whar we spects you ain't!" —Lippincott's Magazine.

True Greatness.

True greatness, first of all, is a thing of the heart. It is all alive with robust and generous sympathies. It is neither behind its age nor too far before it. It is up with its age and ahead of it only just so far as to be able to lead its march. It cannot slumber, for activity is a necessity of its existence. It is no reservoir, but a fountain.—Roswell D. Hitchcock.

Both Strong.

"For a moment," he related, "I held my breath"—
"My," she interrupted admiringly, "how strong you must be!"
He edged away, blushed and felt in his vest pocket for a clove.—Cleveland Leader.

Disagreeable Economy.

Husband—You are not economical. Wife—Well, if you don't call a woman economical who saves her wedding dress for a possible second marriage I'd like to know what you think economy is like.—San Francisco Bulletin.

His Line of Reasoning.

"What reason does he give for not paying his wife alimony?"
"He says that marriage is a lottery and hence alimony is a gambling debt." —Collier's Weekly.

JUNIOR NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES.

The total enrollment at the close of Thursday's work was 181.

No sessions were held at the normal Tuesday on account of the national holiday.

Sup'ts Jas. O'Connell, of Hitchcock county, Flora B. Quick, of Red Willow, and G. H. Pickett, of Hayes, have been in attendance, this week.

Instructor C. M. Barr paid a visit to Lincoln and points in the eastern part of the state at the beginning of the present week, and was caught away from home by the washouts. He was on duty, Tuesday morning, however.

Beginning on Monday next the chapel exercises will be held at the former hour, ten o'clock, instead of 11:20, as has been made necessary by the sessions of the model school. It is believed that this will prove more convenient to visitors as well as more pleasing to the teachers themselves.

Mr. W. K. Fowler, former state superintendent, and the originator of the junior normal school idea, visited the normal last Friday, during his sojourn in McCook, and spoke happily to the teachers in relation to their work. He received an enthusiastic greeting, which in a measure attested the regard in which he is held.

Sup't Jas. O'Connell assumes a place in the normal next week as an instructor. The model school work ceases, and in its place classes will be formed in physiology, bookkeeping, mental arithmetic, and orthography. School law will be given instead of methods. This is a most opportunity time to enter when new work is being offered.

The music program Friday morning of last week possessed rather more than usual qualities of charm. Mr. Miller sang "The Friars of the Orders Gay", always popular to hear, while Miss Bessie Peterson delightfully rendered a piano number. Mr. J. A. Gaarde was down twice on the program, greatly to the satisfaction of the audience.

The next number in the entertainment course will be the concert by the Clayton Jubilee singers. This occurs Wednesday night of next week, July 12. The reservation of seats begins this morning, and seats will be sold to-morrow. Tickets will be sold for the gallery, also, but the number will be strictly limited to its comfortable capacity. The only way to be sure of admission, therefore, is to buy in advance.

Rev. J. J. Loughran was present at the assembly exercises, Thursday morning, and delivered a most wholesome and effective address to the teachers. For the past three years he has been rather closely observing the work of the school, and he pointed out to the members some of the things they can do to avoid criticism. The enthusiasm with which they greeted his closing words indicated the good humor in which they received his thought.

A most remarkable letter was received at the normal school, this week, from the superintendent of Gosper county, inquiring for a teacher for a very particular set of school directors. It was their desire to employ a "married man of middle age," and the superintendent said that he knew of no one whom he could recommend. Despite the fact that there are but one or two men in attendance at the McCook junior normal's answer was promptly sent where such a teacher could be procured.

A pleasing Fourth of July program, somewhat quiet and dignified, was given at the chapel hour Monday morning. Besides chorus singing of the national songs, "America", "The Star Spangled Banner", and "The Red, White and Blue", Miss O'Sullivan read the Declaration of Independence, Mr. Hooper gave a brief talk on how we came to have a Fourth of July, Mr. Thomas read several patriotic poems, and three members of the music class, Misses Harned, Long and Dougherty sang Sousa's inspiring "Stars and Stripes Forever".

Miss Nellie M. Schlee will conclude her work to-day as a model school teacher, and to-morrow leave for Lincoln and Tecumseh. General regret is felt among the teachers that this week marks the end of her connection with the normal, because in every respect her assistance has been inspiring and valuable. The model school work has never before had such hearty recognition as it has had this summer, and this condition is due quite as much to Miss Schlee's pleasing personality as to the bettered plan of work in vogue this year.

Premiums for Farm Products at the State Fair.

No state fair in the western circuit offers so large an amount in premiums for farm products as the Nebraska State Fair. Two thousand dollars for county collective exhibits and more than $500.00 for individual exhibits makes a total of more than $2,500.00 in premiums for farm products, as the various exhibits included in a county collective exhibit can also be entered in the name of the grower for premiums in the various lots. In addition, the state fair management guarantee a premium of $100.00 for all county collective exhibits which cover a prescribed space and that score not less than eight hundred points out of a possible sixteen hundred. As all county collective exhibits are transported to and from the fair free, this $100.00 insures the payment of the necessary expense incurred in making such an exhibit.

No entry fee is required to make exhibits and all premiums are paid in full, without discount. The first premium for county collective exhibits is $300.00; the remaining $1,700.00 is prorated according to the score of each exhibit, with the guaranty of $100.00 to each collective exhibit, as before mentioned.

The agricultural building on the state fair grounds will accommodate about twenty-five county collective exhibits and already one-half of the space has been applied for. Right now is the time to select specimens of grasses and small grains for such exhibits and county agricultural societies or individuals intending to make collective exhibits should at once make application for space. For further information address S. C. Bassett, secretary, Lincoln, Neb.

Depredations of Texas Coyotes.

Citizens of McMullen and adjoining counties of Texas are in a state of terror because of the depredations of coyotes, which are killing scores of cattle. Worse than that, the slinking brutes are spreading hydrophobia among the stock. A man living in Tilden was bitten by an infected coit and died in a few days. Ways and means of getting rid of the pests are being considered.
